Doan, the driving force behind MSU's transition into a cheerleading powerhouse, was one of the winningest coaches in the United States.

Driver airlifted after crash into backhoe

Pendleton County emergency personnel responded to the scene of a one-vehicle, injury accident at 1:44 p.m. Friday, June 20 after a Falmouth man failed to stop after coming down Shoemaker Hill and crashed into a backhoe in the parking lot of Licking River Campground & Bait Shop. Philip Wiggins, 73, operating a 1994 Mazda truck, was traveling south on Hwy 159 when he proceeded through the stop sign at the intersection of Hwy 22 East, crossed over the roadway and entered the bait shop parking lot, striking the backhoe head-on. Wiggins was estimated to be traveling at a speed of around 55 mph and moved the piece of heavy equipment several feet into a tree. According to police reports, the man may have been possibly having medical problems before the crash. Emergency personnel worked to free Wiggins from the truck and he was airlifted to University Medical Center in Cincinnati with what appeared to be severe facial and head injuries. His current condition is unknown as of press time. Pendleton County E.M.S., the Falmouth Fire Department and the Falmouth Police Department responded to the scene. Officer Greg Spaulding worked the accident. Photo by Jackie Vaughn.

Grant County veteran's remains return home to family and to finally rest in peace

(Editor's Note: The Grant County News Editor Jamie Baker-Nantz has graciously allowed The Falmouth Outlook to run the stories she wrote concerning the Korean War soldier who was laid to rest on June 20, some 60 years after his death.

Hopefully, veterans and other subscribers will be interested in this veteran's story. The initial findings began on February 20, 2014 with others added on June 19, 2014 and the final story of his funeral on June 20, 2014.)

Grant County News

Dorothy Gordon Gayheart clutched an enhanced color photograph of her baby brother tightly in her worn, wrinkled hands as she intently studied another photograph and diagram of his remains. Tears sprang to her weathered, but sharp eyes as she looked at him for the first time since he left Grant County when he joined the Korean War as a soldier.

Paul Marshall Gordon went missing in January 1951, but his family never gave up hope as they spent 60 years waiting for him to come home. His remains were removed from Hawaii and returned to Williamstown on Tuesday, June 17 for a burial with full military honors in the Kentucky Veterans Cemetery North.

Dorothy Gordon Gayheart of Grant County clutches a photograph of her brother, Paul Gordon, as a young soldier heading off to fight in the Korean Conflict. She waited 60 years for his return after he was listed as missing in action in 1951.

Negotiations between the United States and North Korea in recent years have resulted in field investigation and excavation teams being allowed into North Korea to search for the remains of missing service members. In 1999, the military took DNA samples from Paul's living siblings, Artha Gordon and Gayheart, to aid in identifying Paul.

After receiving 15 boxes of remains, the military began the long, arduous process of piecing the remains together. In 2010, the military was able to positively identify Paul's remains using DNA technology, but did not notify the family until last month that their brother and uncle had been entombed at the Punch Bowl Cemetery in Hawaii since 1992.

"My father died not knowing he had been found, but he told us what he wanted us to do if they ever found him," said Paula Gordon, Paul's niece, who was named for her uncle.

Last week, three members of the military from Ft. Knox met with the Gordon family to brief them on what had been pieced together about Paul's last days and how he came to be in Hawaii. Four nephews and a niece VETERAN Page 7

Hammer Strength celebrates 25 years of business in Falmouth

By Roger McKinney, Reporter

The inventor/founding father, the head of the parent company, administrators, the local management team and the 100 Hammer Strength plant employees celebrated 25 years of successful business on June 2, 2014 at 188 Hammer Drive in Falmouth, Kentucky.

In 1970 Dr. Scholl Inc. began manufacturing shoes in the same plant where Hammer Strength now produces 90 different types of body building machines.

In 1979 Dr. Scholl was acquired by the Shearing-Plough Corporation. In late 1981 Shearing-Plough, unable to deal with foreign competition, closed the plant. By April of 1982 the plant was converted to a warehouse and distribution center. In 1985 the distribution center was closed.

Then in 1988 with the help of his friends and financial partners, Pete Brown and Kim Wood of the Cincinnati Bengals, Gary A. Jones acquired the empty plant. In 1989 the plant, which now housed a new company called Hammer Strength, began to produce machines that helped the human body to become healthier and stronger. In 1997 Mr. Jones sold the thriving business to the Brunswick Corporation, the parent company of Life Fitness. Brunswick, among other things, makes marine engines, boats, bowling balls, and billiard products. Life Fitness is best known for cardiovascular machines such as treadmills, stair climbers, stationary bikes and ellipticals.

Twenty-five years after Gary A. Jones created Hammer Strength the company has succeeded beyond anyone's most far-fetched fantasy. The Hammer Strength plant sits high on a hill, like a magic palace within an enchanted forest, achieving things that seem almost impossible.

Since 1989 Hammer Strength workers have produced over 381,000 units of strength training equipment that has been sold in 120 countries around the world.

The people in Falmouth and in the surrounding community are proud of HAMMER Page 3

Doan

Madonna Weathers, vice president of student life.

Said Ryan McGovern, a cheerleader from 1999 to 2002: "You kind of knew at the time that it was a privilege to be around someone who expected such excellence from you all the time."

"He just had a lasting impact on anyone that had the opportunity to have their lives cross paths with his."

After Doan suffered a massive heart attack last week, former students from around the country began flying to Morehead to comfort the family at St. Claire Regional Medical Center, McGovern said.

A native of Falmouth, Doan came to MSU in 1967 to study music, according to an obituary on the university website. After earning a bachelor's degree, he worked at the campus radio station while completing a graduate degree. In 1985, he was named assistant to the vice president of student life and later would become assistant dean of students and then dean.

Doan was introduced to college cheerleading after agreeing to accompany the squad on road trips. In 1979, he began to coach and immersed himself in the sport. MSU cheerleading would explode onto the competitive scene in 1988.

"That first year of competition was probably one of the biggest highlights of my career," Doan said. "We were in unknown territory, having never competed before, so coming out on top was a tremendous experience."

During his career, the coed squad captured 13 national championships. An all-girl squad was added in 1994, and it held six national championships during his tenure.

In 2004, Doan retired from MSU, then made a brief return in 2010 to serve as interim cheerleading coach.

Doan was named Cheerleader Magazine's Coach of the Year in 2002 and was inducted into the MSU Alumni Hall of Fame in 2004. The Myron Doan Cheer Practice Room, formerly the gymnastics room, in MSU's Academic-Athletic Center was named for him in 2006.

Hammer Strength. There is only one Hammer Strength plant and that plant is in Falmouth, Kentucky. There are many Falmouths spread across the face of the globe, but only one Falmouth is the home of Hammer Strength.

The Hammer Strength Anniversary celebration began at 11 p.m. when Plant Manager Brian Addington addressed a gathering that consisted of company officers, managers and plant employees. Addington introduced Life Fitness President Chris Clawson, Brunswick Chairman and Chief Executive Officer-Dusty McCoy and the founding father of Hammer Strength Gary A. Jones. Addington thanked Clawson and McCoy for their support of Hammer Strength and he acknowledged Jones as the company's creator.

Clawson presented commemorative plaques to McCoy, Jones and three employees who had been with Hammer Strength for 25 years, Faye Ammerman, Thomas Bruce (aka Cosmo) and Ernie Moore. Chris Clawson said that Life Fitness was very proud of Hammer Strength and the employees of Hammer Strength.

McCoy addressed the crowd saying that the Hammer brand stood for something all around the world that no one could match. He told the Hammer Strength employees that this well-earned reputation was because of them, due to their dedication and hard work. McCoy said that health, wellness and fitness were the fastest growing segments within the Brunswick Corporation. He said that Brunswick had been in business for nearly 170 years and that in 2013 the company grossed approximately four billion dollars. He also stated that Life Fitness and Hammer Strength were responsible for earning about 18 per cent of that sum.

The founding father of Hammer Strength, Gary A. Jones, addressed the gathering. Gary, a legend in his own right, is the son of Nautilus inventor-Arthur Jones. The founder told the group that he and his family lived inside the Hammer Strength plant for ten years. In fact, they literally had an apartment inside the plant. So, every morning when Gary opened his front door he was already at work. "I grew up in all the Nautilus plants" he said, "and originally I lived in a zoo, but that's another story."

Here again, Jones was not kidding. His father transported a large number of African animals to the United States and his family lived in close proximity to many of those creatures. In a way, he is a bridge or connector between wild animals and machines. To this day his favorite form of clothing is safari garb.

Jones thanked the Hammer Strength employees for

He worked his way up to assistant dean of students and later became dean of students. In 1979 he became the coach of the co-ed cheerleading squad and in 1988 Morehead won their first national championship under him. During his career they captured 13 national championships. An all girl squad was added in 1994 and he coached them to six national titles. Myron's career was one of the most celebrated in the world of collegiate cheerleading. The descendants of Civil War veteran Emerson McGee pose for a group photo after a memorial dedication at the family plot on Best Case Farm, Mark Haley Road in Falmouth. Pictured in the center is lifelong Pendleton County resident Chipper McGee.

Emerson McGee honored at Stough Memorial Dedication Ceremony

Best Case Farm held a Memorial Dedication for a former landowner and Civil War veteran Emerson McGee on Sunday, May 25. The McGee family plot is located on Mark Haley Rd. on a corner of Best Case Farm, LLC.

2014 marks the 150th anniversary of Emerson McGee joining the 109th Colored Troops out of Louisville. After the war, Emerson and his family settled in Pendleton County on 250 acres of land. He also owned property in Bracken County. Part of Emerson McGee's farm is now owned by Michael and Barbara Stough.

The Stoughs discovered the McGee family plot. They had the cemetery cleared and fenced with a decorative black, wrought iron. Their employees maintain the plot weekly.

Barbara Stough researched the McGee family and found several members who were raised here in Pendleton County. One daughter and two sons of Eddie McGee, the well-known town mechanic, were present for the dedication.

While speaking with one of his sons, Billy McGee, said, "It was like growing up in Mayberry. My dad was well-liked and respected. Folks came from three counties over to have my dad work on their cars. My uncle was the town barber, Willie, and everyone came to him for a haircut."

"We didn't know about racism," McGee continued. "We were part of the community and treated the same as everyone else. Pendleton County was a great place to grow up."

Eddie McGee's son, Chipper, a lifelong Pendleton County resident, was present even though he is now in a VA nursing home. Stough has offered to pay for a medical van to bring Chipper to the ceremony next year.

Other extended family members were present for the dedication, prepared and presented by Mike Stough at the McGee family cemetery. Also present was a trumpet player, who played taps after the dedication, from a hidden location in the woods next to the ceremony. After that, the 109th American Legion Post of Falmouth did a three volley twenty-one gun salute with six members and an active duty Navy Airmen home on leave.

The Stoughs invited the guests and family members to a luncheon on another part of their farm after the service was complete. This was the second of three dedications to represent the three years of the Civil War.

Rabbi Ben Ezra

By Owen Collins

Materialism versus spiritual value

I closed last week's article by saying that we put too much emphasis on material things such as money and cars and houses and land. I think that a further explanation is in order.

What's wrong with having a healthy bank account? Or a nice, late model car? Or, a modern, convenient home? Or, a picturesque farm with a white fence? Nothing! Because we are taught in the Bible to be industrious, saving, and to care for our families and our fellow man. Orneriness and laziness are eschewed!

Therefore, when do material things become a negative in our lives? I suggest when they get out-of-balance, or to put it more simply, when we put our faith in them to the detriment of spiritual values. Please consider the following examples of where things got in the way of a more spiritual, fulfilling life.

I was sweet on a high school cheerleader, but she fell for an older man who had gone north of the Ohio River, made a lot of money and bought a large, late model car. I was in a class at Lees College when the professor asked the girls, "What would you look for in a man to date?" The first response I remember was, "A nice car." I did not own a car until I was a senior in college, a car I bought for 150 dollars and found that it had sawdust in the transmission. Fortunately, I married a woman who saw beyond the surface of material things

Joe Creason, a reporter for the Louisville Courier Journal, wrote many years past of visiting some families in the eastern Kentucky coal fields during a coal boom. He visited a palatial home with a swimming pool at the mouth of a hollow. A daughter came from her bedroom wearing blue jeans and a mink jacket. She argued with her father, got into a corvette and scratched off the driveway on her way to high school. Joe said he sensed tension between the husband and wife.

Joe then went up the long winding hollow near its headwaters and found a modest home with a big front porch overlooking a huge garden. An older man in bib overalls sat in a rocking chair with a couple of kids curled on his lap. The mother appeared in the doorway, barefooted, with a broom in hand. Joe said that he stayed over an hour and saw nothing but love among this family of modest means. Joe closed his write-up with the question, "When does a house become a home?"

I was about 12, sitting in the darkened recesses of the Elkatawa Post Office when I saw my father walking down Highway 52 toward a small farm he had purchased near where the Elkatawa Free Methodist Church is today. One of the men said, "There goes a smart man." The other man said, "Yeah, I guess so, but he ain't got no money!"

I told my golfing buddies that I had heard of a family in eastern Kentucky who had left a 75 million dollar estate, but that their children did not speak to each other. Would you take 75 million dollars and not have your children speak to each other? One said, "No, family values are more important to me than money." The other said, "75 million dollars is a lot of money; I'll need to think about this some more before I give you an answer."

If the love of money and material things have their shortcomings in providing meaning and happiness in our lives, what are some spiritual values that can give us purpose and fulfillment? I suggest that faith, family, and friends are three to begin with.

Faith, particularly Christianity, is an anchor to our spirit in times of deep distress and otherwise. Our youth today is growing up with cataclysmic value change without much awareness of what's right and wrong. They are like a wooden ship without an anchor on a storm-tossed ocean trip. I read recently where there had been 70 shootings in the public schools since Sandy Hook in 2012. I remember going thru high school and the worst incident we had was a fist fight and most of the student body did not see it.

Family values are as much or more spiritual than they are material, although it takes a lot of money to see children educated. And, we have a President who will not defend the Defense of Marriage Act. And, there are many forces of evil that would like to destroy the traditional family. But it is a unit ordained of God, and it is under attack as never before in our nation.

Janice and I are proud of our two sons, the ladies whom they married, and our grandchildren. Janice and I will turn over in our grave if any person involved in either marriage allows someone to intrude and damage or destroy what God has ordained for five precious grandchildren!

Friends: How important? I was golfing with an old nemesis recently, a friend who likes to make fun of us oldies taking the game too seriously. He said, "Collins, this money thing is over-rated (He has done quite well financially!). About all I'm interested in now are my friends and making a four-foot putt!"

Among other spiritual values are: love; appreciation of music and art and beauty; and bird watching. None of these can be bought with money!

Citizen speaks out in regards to inner city chickens

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter to inform the Falmouth community of a new city ordinance regarding keeping chickens within city limits (Ordinance #2013-130.40). I thought the ordinance was still being debating and I was not aware that it was in effect until our newest Animal Control Officer, Julie Sandy, brought it to my attention on Wednesday. It was implied that I could still keep my chickens if I completed an application along with a fee for a 25 dollar permit, which may be renewable annually upon her discretion. However, upon further study, I found that I, in fact cannot keep my chickens in city limits because mine are not part of "an approved 4-H program." My chickens are used for egg consumption and as pets. Although I do not have roosters, which crow, and my (carefully selected) heritage breed chickens are very docile, I was told that mine have been a nuisance and were reported. Therefore, I will take this time to apologize to anyone who might have been troubled by the few birds I have. I will also inform anyone interested that I will be getting rid of "my girls" within the week and they will no longer pose a problem.

I would like to take this time also to point out what a shame it is that we live in a community that does not promote the idea of "backyard chickens." Chickens have various personalities and can be quite comical as they interact with each other or even with us humans. They are just as educational for adults as they are for children. It has been great pleasure to know that my family, friends and neighbors have had the opportunity to eat healthy eggs produced from my healthy chickens in a healthy environment. I suppose the city has decided that they'd rather promote buying questionable eggs from grocery stores. I suppose they must also be promoting financial discrimination since everyone in the city who might have enjoyed having their own chickens for egg or food production might not be able to afford the renewable fee or the ridiculous violation charges. But, perhaps that is the point for some. I am not sure. It makes no sense to me that they'd encourage children to learn about raising chickens when, as adults, they won't be permitted to do so here.

I applaud that so much effort has been put toward the epidemic of chicken farming in the city. Perhaps, now everyone can really concentrate on those "minor" topics that may have been put on the back burner until this has been settled.

For anyone else who may be interested in the idea of backyard chickens (just as an idea since you are not allowed here), I suggest you do a little research. You will soon learn how healthy, enjoyable, and acceptable it may be to have a handful of "girls" in your very own backyard. Neighboring cities such as Augusta, Ft. Thomas (ord # 0-09-2011 in Ch. 11), Lexington (state ref, KRS ch. 246), Alexandria (Chapter 90) and I believe even Crestview Hills allow chickens within their city limits. The University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture has even included copies on their website of recent publications regarding urban poultry. Perhaps our local extension office can provide information on such publications or you may be able to contact the college directly. Maybe someday Falmouth will decide that backyard chickens aren't such a bad idea after all. Until then, I wish you all well and good luck.

Thank you!
Shannon Johnson

Dear Editor,

On Saturday, May 3, 2014 some players from the Pendleton County Boys soccer Team picked up trash on Rankin Mill and Morgan-Hightower Roads. There were 14 people who picked up and we had 45 bags full of trash along with two tires in the stretch. Most of the garbage was paper and plastic from fast food restaurants and drinks that were just tossed aside after use.

Thanks for the opportunity to improve our neighborhood.

"The Road Block"

One has to be cautious when approaching old age. The process is very similar to that of a child when he takes his first step all alone on that giant school bus. The fears are very similar for an old man.

I have made the mistake before of quoting the Scripture on saying "Once a man and twice a child." The Scripture does not really say that, but ever who said it spoke the truth.

As I am nearing the age of 70, which is a "milestone," I can see myself having similar fears of when I was a child or a teenager.

When I was 16 years old, I had a fear of losing my very prized driver's license. Now as an adult, I have the same fear of losing my license.

Whenever a police officer gets behind me, I fear that I am doing something wrong. I wish they would stay back instead of getting right on your bumper.

I know people probably slow up when they see a police following but I get nervous. It's like Solomon says in one of his books, "The guilty flees though no man pursues."

Just a while back, I read a piece in the daily paper that said they had graduated a class of 75 or 80 new Kentucky State police officers.

Now, one thing, you can take note of, when a class of new state troopers is graduated some will show up in small rural counties such as Pendleton practicing "road blocks."

About two months ago, the wife sent me to town to get a gallon of milk and a loaf of bread. We only live just two miles from the market and I suppose I felt comfort and security being so close to home.

Once I left the store and headed toward home, I crossed our very new bridge and saw blue lights flashing everywhere. I thought my goodness, there has been a major accident and someone had been killed.

As I neared the lights, I realized that it was only a road block or check point. Then I started to realize that I did not have my seat belt connected.

The approach was a straight stretch for some 100 yards, and I quickly grabbed my seatbelt and haphazardly connected it.

As expected, these were new troopers. The officer was young and very athletic. He had a burr haircut and a "Smokey the Bear Hat."

Even though it was a cloudy day, he was wearing those metallic sunglasses that he could see out of but you could not see his eyes. He had military type clothing, with combat boots, and his gun was attached to his leg instead of his beltline.

He was polite in a very businesslike way and instructed me to produce my license and proof of insurance.

Of course I had it ready and began to feel confident. One ultimately gets into trouble when feeling too comfortable and then talks too much.

His next question was more direct, "Do you always wear your seatbelt?"

I said, "Yes sir!" I began telling him that I had been Circuit Clerk for twenty years, and was instrumental in helping pass the seatbelt law. I deliberated further by telling him that when I was clerk, I would always wear my seatbelt if I was just driving from my office to the post office.

He looked down at me in a stern and confident manner, and said, "Do you always run it through your steering wheel?"

I suppose the young officer felt sorry for an old man, and commented, "Try to do a better job next time of hooking your belt!"

Citizen expresses the enjoyment and importance of KRT

Dear Editor,

A few days ago, I spent a delightful afternoon at Kincaid Regional Theater watching their presentation of "Willy Wonka Jr." The entire cast was great, especially the leads; Jeffrey Jackson (Willy), Maxwell Sparks (Candy Man) and Caden Veirs (Charlie Bucket). As Willy Wonka comes to an end, I look forward to the July production of "All Shook Up," a play for the entire family. We owe much to Shirley Merrill and the production crew for giving us a great live theatre experience which we are so fortunate to have in our small community. Many cities of our size do not have this privilege that we take for granted.

Please, people, support our local theater! It's well worth the price of the ticket.

Also don't forget, KRT always presents a wonderful Christmas play that makes a great gift for all family members.

Support KRT; it's one of the most enjoyable and important things you can do for your family!

Thank you.
Carolyn McGlasson

THE NATE JONES REPORT

By Jack Wright

Pendleton County's hometown Major League Baseball star, Nathan Andrew "Nate" Jones, is in his third season as a relief pitcher with the Chicago White Sox. Below are brief details of his in-game activities for the week ending June 22, 2014.

Jones has been on the White Sox disabled list (DL) since April 4 due to a herniated disc in his lower spine area that required microdiscectomy surgery on May 5. This past week was a continuation of positive progress in his rehabilitation efforts to get back to active duty. He was permitted to join his Major League teammates for their three-city, 11-game road trip to continue his rehab work, beginning Thursday, June 19, in Minneapolis.

According to Scott Merkin, a reporter on the White Sox webpage, Jones said, "I feel part of the team again, getting to watch the team on the field instead of on TV, so that's pretty awesome. I'm glad to get to this point because it means I'm throwing the baseball. We're getting closer, that's for sure, I'm still increasing my workload and the amount of new things I'm doing. So it's really day to day. Increasing my exercises and see how I react the next day. If all goes well, we're going to increase the workload."

Merkin also reported Jones has increased his sprints up to 120 feet, and throwing wise, he's back to 140 or 150 feet making 15 throws. He also gets to throw 10-to-15 pitches on flat ground. "It's all fastballs," Jones said, "But it's going well."

If all continues to go well, including upcoming bullpens and rehab assignments, Jones hopes for a late July or early August return. He stressed that was pure conjecture on his part.

Jones' stats for the season: 2 games; 0.0 innings pitched; 5 batters faced; 29 pitches (13 strikes); 2 hits; 3 walks; 4 runs (earned); 1 blown save.

Sox season record: 35 wins; 41 losses; last place in the American League Central Division; seven games behind the division leading Detroit Tigers.

Accident claims life of Mason County deputy

By Marla Toncray,
The Ledger Independent

An accident on Kentucky 9, the AA Highway, in Mason County has claimed the life of Mason County Sheriff's Deputy Darren Hull.

The accident occurred around 5 p.m. in Thursday, June 19 in the area of Barry Road and involved two passenger vehicles and the motorcycle Hull was driving.

Mason County Sheriff Patrick Boggs said Thursday night around 8:50 p.m., he could not provide details about the accident, due to the fact the investigation is being conducted by the Kentucky State Police. Boggs said KSP is handling the investigation because a member of his department was involved.

Boggs confirmed Hull was off duty when the accident occurred.

Hull had been a member of the Mason County Sheriff's Department for nearly 8 years, Boggs said. He had previous law enforcement experience with the Flemingsburg and Maysville Police Departments and had served with the Maysville Fire Department. He also served with the U.S. Army.

Hull, 49, leaves behind his wife, Tina, and two sons, Christopher, a sheriff's deputy with the Boone County Sheriff's Office, and Devin, a sheriff's deputy with the Mason County Sheriff's Office.

"He was very proud of his service in the Army and with the cities and counties he served. He loved to wear the uniform and help people," Boggs said.

Struggling with his emotions at the loss of his employee and friend, Boggs referred to Hull as "a friend of the brother."

"He was somebody you could count on, he was always there when I needed him," said Boggs.

Boggs said members of his department are devastated at the loss of their co-worker and will stay with Hull's body over the next days and through the funeral ceremonies.

Reports of other individuals being injured in the accident and transported to Meadowview Regional Medical Center could not be confirmed as of press time, because KSP had not released information to local media outlets.

Paul's sister in a semi-circle around the military personnel in the youth center at Sherman Baptist Church.

"We weren't able to get the official personnel file but we did try to find additional documents from our file, but a lot of the historical documents have been lost," said Jeanette Bogle, a senior mortuary affairs specialist. But Paul's family, especially his mother, faithfully kept, now faded newspaper clippings each time a list of Prisoners Of War (POW) or Missing In Action (MIA) were released. Each clipping and letter from the army through the years reminded the family the military was still looking for Paul, were lovingly placed in a photo album. "All these news clippings you've got are great," Bogle told the Gordon family, as she looked through them, as well as photos of Paul and his family.

The family was also given a CD and bound copy of the documents the army was able to piece together concerning Paul.

"It is not uncommon with conflicts for soldiers to become missing and years later other prisoners are released and they tell us they saw him here or there," said Bogle. The Gordon family learned that Paul's unit came under heavy fire while trying to gain control in Korea and were forced to withdraw. When the unit attempted to re-group, 33 members, including Paul were missing. "There were no eye witnesses so they reported him missing because they didn't have any information," Bogle said.

Following the end of the Korean War, the U.S. and Korean government worked out three different exchanges of wounded, injured and dead, but Bogle said Paul's remains were not found then. During Operation Glory, Bogle said Korea agreed to return 4,023 sets of remains. Of those 1,868 were determined to be American and only 848 were positively identified and sent to the National Cemetery of the Pacific in Hawaii. "We are working to get those remains disinterred because now DNA testing allows us to identify them," Bogle said. Between 1990 through 1994, the U.S. received 208 crates of remains from Korea.

In May 1992, the Peoples Republic of Korea turned over 15 crates of remains to the U.S. government and parts of Paul's remains were found in all 15 of those boxes, William Cox, also a senior mortuary affairs specialist said. "Anthropologists, once opening the boxes, realized the remains had been co-mingled," Cox said. "We believe 400 guys are represented in those boxes so there's always a possibility of more coming back because of the way they did the boxes. It's like three puzzles being thrown on the floor and you're told to put them together."

The military was able to identify 37 different individuals from the 15 boxes. "What we do know from the 15 boxes is that all those remains came from the same province in North Korea," Bogle said. Paul Gordon makes the 38th soldier identified from that group.

Portions of his skull, arm bones and both leg bones were recovered. "It is not a complete set, but a pretty decent amount of remains that have been recovered," Bogle said.

As Dorothy viewed the photos of her long, lost brother, tears seeped from her eyes. Paula quietly crossed the room and kissed her mother's forehead. It is possible that more of Paul's remains could be located in Hawaii and if they are recovered, the family has requested they be returned to Grant County and buried with these initial remains. The family's other option would have been to have them buried at sea with military honors.

After the military reached out to the Gordon family to ask for DNA samples from Artha and Dorothy, they were able to positively identify the remains as Paul's. "We found out that Dorothy's DNA wasn't a common strain of DNA and there were only nine other servicemen that had this type of DNA," said Bogle. "Which is why we ran Artha's DNA and got an exact match so we were able to say without a doubt this is Paul Gordon." Bogle said when the Central Identification Lab believes they have a hit on remains, they follow up with an outside lab to determine a positive match.

Much of the problem of identifying lost and missing soldiers in Korea occurs because the Korean government did not keep records of their prisoners. The army was able to determine that Paul died from an illness, based on interviews conducted with some of his fellow prisoners as they were rescued or released.

"The actual date that his unit retreated and was captured, it was about 20 degrees out, there was snow on the ground with a sharp wind blowing, so the conditions were not good and it was hard on the soldiers," said Bogle, referring to a report by a U.S. engineer unit in Korea.

The Gordon family learned that Paul was in the infantry but also may have helped cook for the unit. "I always heard he was a cook," Dorothy said. "It sounds like him to make cakes for the troops."

"Did he do that at home?" Bogle asked.

"When mom would let him," Dorothy answered.

Dorothy signed the official documents accepting the military's findings and her brother's remains. When the family decided on a date for the funeral, Paul was brought with a military escort to Grant County.

He was escorted all the way from Hawaii to Kentucky and given a dignified, plain state honors at the Cincinnati Airport. Bogle said, "We consider him just like a current day soldier. He died on active service and we're going to honor that."

The family is also being assisted by Sgt. First Class Jad Davis, of Corinth.

"You get closure and you get to bring Paul home and give him a proper burial," Bogle said.

Merle Simpson waited 60 years for his buddy, Paul Marshall Gordon, to make it back to Grant County. "It means everything to be here today because he's coming home," said Simpson, now a resident of Greensburg, Indiana.

Paul's family and friends waited patiently in the hot sun on Tuesday as his remains arrived from Atlanta with a full military escort.

They had all been waiting and hoping that the day would come when they could return the Grant County native and Korean War casualty home for a proper burial. They'll get that opportunity when Gordon's funeral takes place at 11 a.m. on Friday, June 20 at Sherman Baptist Church.

Paul wasn't old enough to join the military, but did it anyway. He went missing after his unit came under heavy fire while trying to gain control in Korea. The unit, H Company, 2nd Battalion, 38th Infantry Regiment, had to withdraw and when they re-grouped 33 members, including Paul, were unaccounted for. Paul remained classified as MIA (Missing In Action) and was later re-classified as a POW (Prisoner Of War), a fact his family learned a few months ago when the military came to Grant County for a de-briefing. At the meeting, Dorothy Gordon Gayheart, Paul's only remaining sibling, signed off to accept her brother's remains so that he could be returned to his hometown for burial.

Gayheart lay her weathered hands gently on the back of the hearse where Paul's casket was placed when it arrived at the Northern Kentucky/Greater Cincinnati International Airport at 10:52 a.m. on June 17.

His oldest friend, Simpson, said he and Paul were starting guards on the Crittenden High School Basketball team. The two teenagers were inseparable. "He and I were close," Simpson said. "We were always together." Simpson said Paul was easy going and fun to be around.

"I never saw him mad," Simpson said. "He was just one of the nicest guys." He recalled one basketball game in Owen County when Paul had the ball and a much larger player on the opposing team knocked him down attempting to take the ball away.

"I mean he completely flattened him," Simpson said. "We got Paul off the floor and he took his free throw, but he wasn't upset about it and he probably should have been."

The childhood friends even enlisted together. Simpson went to leadership school while Paul decided not to. Before being shipped to Okinawa, Simpson made a stop at Ft. Lewis, Texas to visit his lifelong friend. "We had a grand time," Simpson said, laughing about the fun the two men shared.

When Simpson learned that his buddy was missing, he didn't know what to think. "It just chilled me. I thought maybe there was hope they would find him," Simpson said.

After Simpson's military service was over, he visited Paul's mother, who told him that the family had been told that Paul might have escaped from the POW camp and they'd send more information later.

Paul's parents, Doll and Urie Gordon, as well as his siblings passed down his story to their children and children's children in hopes that Paul would some day be brought home.

Darla Barber, of Muncie, Indiana, is the daughter of Paul's oldest sister, Evaline Sydnor. She grew up hearing stories about Uncle Paul.

"I was little, sitting on my grandma's knee and she'd talk about Paul," Barber said. "You don't really think about those stories until you get older. Boy, I sure wish my mom was here for this day."

Paula Gordon, who is named for her uncle, said her father, Aurtha Ray Gordon, never gave up hope that he would be able to bury Paul before he passed.

"You always think your little brother is something great. It is something that leaves a void you just can't close. I just want to get his bones and bury him before I die. I got a plot for him up in the cemetery," Aurtha said when he was asked by the military to give a DNA sample to help identify Paul's remains.

Mickey Sanders traveled from Port Orchard, Washington for her uncle's funeral. "I was just two months old when he was captured," she said. "I wouldn't have missed this day."

Sanders is Aurtha's daughter, making her Paul's oldest niece. Her grandson was born just a couple of weeks ago. "It's fitting that our newest family member was just born and we're now laying Paul to rest," she said. Sanders named her daughter after Paul so his memory would live on. "He's never been forgotten," she said, describing herself as a "tough, old bird."

"It was such a miracle that he was found and brought back to us," she said. "It was if a little weight was lifted off my heart. I think because my father was always worried that he'd never be found."

USED FABRIC AND CLOTHING FINDS AT GARAGE SALES
Whether you call it used or vintage, recycling clothing is a way to extend your wardrobe at a fraction of the cost of buying retail. Your finds could be classics that stay pretty much the same from year to year, like that little black dress, silk tank top or cardigan sweater, or you could be into reworking vintage fabrics using your sewing skills. You could even be into waiting out the trends, watching for bellbottoms, stirrup pants or enormous shoulder pads to come back into style. Whatever your motivation, garage sales offer fertile territory for recycling clothing.

RELIGION

BUTLER BAPTIST
This Father's Day we honored some special fathers. The youngest father was Chris Lynch. The father with the youngest child was Bryan Taylor. The wisest father was Herb Clark. Special music to honor fathers was provided by Ron Taylor, Mac McElfresh and Brother Daryl. The Sermon was from 1 Samuel 12:16-25. Samuel was a father figure from the Old Testament. Samuel set the standards for God's people. Fathers are to set the standards within the home as to what is right and wrong. It is our responsibility to teach our children and provide discipline when they do not adhere to the standards. The Bible tells us that we are to teach our children in the ways that are right and wrong. Children know when we are walking with the Lord. That example will last for generations long after we are gone. Children bring joy and happiness to their parents just like we bring joy to our Heavenly Father. God wants to bless your children long after you are gone. Fathers have a huge responsibility to be the spiritual leader of the home.

Happy Father's Day to all fathers. May you be blessed as you raise your children to love the Lord.

CHAPEL OF PRAISE
The Lord blessed us with a beautiful Father's Day service. Sister Carmen lead the congregation in a chorus titled, "You are awesome in the place mighty God" the presence of the Lord could be felt and we just basked in our Heavenly Father's holy presence.

Pastor Kevin's message was on the importance of fathers setting a godly example before their family. Every father should try his best to mimic the example of Job. The Holy Spirit testified of how Job lived a life of righteousness before his children.

We were blessed to have as our visiting guest the Tony Gilbert family and Josh Asbury.

Birthday wishes for the month of June: Steve Kavanagh, James Hamilton and Kevin Clos. Prayer concerns: Joey Asbury and family, Tammy Stewart, Butch Florence, Richard Clos and Joyce Brock.

FALMOUTH CHRISTIAN
"A Father's Day Prayer"
Dear God, Bless all young fathers, the future is not too bright; but if they put their trust in you, they surely will do right. Open wide their eyes and hearts that they may see and know, the need of every little child and tender, loving kindness show. And dear Lord remind them often that every little boy wants to be just like his dad, so dad walk straight with joy. Dear God bless fathers, young and old on this their special day, give them your love and guidance in Jesus name we pray. -Ollie Giltner.

Happy Father's Day, everyday.

FALMOUTH WESLEYAN
We hope you had a wonderful Father's Day. We learned from the life of Joshua how a father can attain peace and safety for his family. He must put God first. The Lord must be the center of any good father's life. Peace and rest are not handed to any family. The good father must fight the enemy of his household. Sin always tries to find a way in homes in order to destroy them.

The father must be willing to obey the Lord at all cost, because the Lord is the only one with the strength to beat the enemy. Lastly, he must continuously pursue the enemy. Joshua did not stop after taking Jericho. His armies went from city to city destroying all enemies until they received the promise of God; "Rest on all sides," and "victory over their enemies."

Worship with us Sunday evenings at 6 p.m.

FIRST BAPTIST
Greetings from First Baptist Church! Mike

Whaley blessed us with special music. We welcomed Bro. Fred Workman, who filled in for Bro. Harry. His sermon was taken from Mark. It tells of the story of Jesus calming the storm on the sea. We too have storms in our lives, but Jesus is with us all the time. Sometime we tend to forget Him when things are going fine. But as soon as trouble comes upon us, we cry out to Jesus. He is with us all the time, we just need to recognize this and let Him lead our lives.

At the close of our service, we presented each father with a gift in honor of Father's Day.

Pray for the lost, the sick and those who have lost loved ones.

"Is prayer your steering wheel or your spare tire?"

HARVEST COMMUNITY
Bro. Dale's message Sunday morning was focused on the family, "God Help Our Homes." Do you have traditions, special dates or special places, to help your children learn about God's work in your life? Do you take time to tell them what God has done for you, forgiving and saving you, answering your prayers and supplying your needs? Retelling your story will help keep memories of God's faithfulness alive in your family and home.

Sunday, June 29 Bible study and worship service will be at the church, followed with a potluck dinner at the Creekside Pavilion. Bring your favorite casserole or dish, drinks, games and chairs for an afternoon of good food, fellowship and fun.

Prayer concerns: Angie Schack, Sharon Purdy, Judy Redden, Henry Bertram, Pat Ray, Janice Wiggins, Gary and Alice Holmes, Harry Case, Lois DeFalco and Myron Doan.

Come worship with us at 111 East Shelby Street.

MORGAN
Another beautiful Sunday at Morgan Christian Church. Worship service began with Steve Wood as "Lord, our Lord, how excellent is your name in all the earth! You set your glory above the heavens!"

~ Psalm 8:1

our moderator and Steve Work leading the music. Kathie Moreland gave the children's message celebrating Father's Day by recognizing our fathers. Louie Calvert was our oldest father present. Randy Taylor our youngest father. Brad Mattill had the youngest child present and Ken Lecure with the oldest child and most children present.

We were honored to have nine preschool children in attendance. We thank God for our children, our future leaders. Debbie Fultz gave our morning message. She spoke on ways our faith is tested and strengthened. We missed Connie Hannah who is in the hospital with double pneumonia. Remember Connie and others who are ill, with prayer.

Our Wednesday night Bible discussions begin at 6 p.m., Sunday school is at 10 a.m., and church at 11 a.m. If you don't have a church home, join us at Morgan anytime.

Do a good deed for someone today.

Please remember in prayer Janet Bishop, the Eha family, Gary and Alice Holmes, Hannah Perkins, Tina Cochran, Haley Teegarden, Jim Bergman, Brother Fred Workman, Brother Rick Lockhart and the Hudgins family. Also remember to pray for our country and its leaders.

OAKLAND CHRISTIAN
"Dad, Let's Be Real!" A real man of God is a risk-taker, sets an excellent example, is always accountable and overflows with love. We paid honor to our fathers this day.

Our choir musical, "Stars and Stripes Forever," is at 6:30 p.m., June 29, with an ice cream social to follow. Since June and Leroy Clifford have moved to Ohio, we will also call this a party for them.

At 7 p.m., July 11 we will hold our "Family Outdoor Movie" night.

Our Revival is July 27-30 with L.D. Campbell as evangelist.

Prayer concerns include Henry Bertram, Myron Doan, Zelma King (St. E. Ft. Thomas), Pam Bruin (home), Juanita King, Gary Holmes (Florence Gateway), Alice Holmes (home), Pat Ray, Inez Lainez, Greg McElfresh, Jenny Crupper, Weston Delaney, Kenton McIntyre, Sharon Purdy, Linda Grizzell, Don Bass, Christine Biddle, Betty Strange, Judy Redden, shut-ins, cancer issues, our leaders and our armed forces.

PINE GROVE
God's radiance shined upon us as we entered our little country church for our worship service.

We again enjoyed our youth with their bell ringing and along with this we have appreciated using our older hymnals for the song service.

Carol paid tribute to our men for Father's Day and had our youth present each with a lapel pin. She honored our earthly fathers, but above all, the greatest love is to our Heavenly Father. Her service was very inspiring as to how we must show our love for all.

We are planning a hymn sing at 6 p.m., June 28. If you would like to be a part of this service, please call Millie Blades at 859-472-3163.

We are continuing our monthly one day Bible school to which youth are invited to be a part. On July 6, we are planning a special service honoring our nation with a potluck meal following.

Let's remember the sick and bereaved in our prayers. If you are looking for a church home, our doors are open.

PLEASANT RIDGE
Mark your calendars. VBS Sunday July 13 through Friday July 18.

Bro. Rick's message was from Proverbs 22:6. Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

Adam, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, Kind David, Joseph. We know many stories relating to these men who were fathers. But the one true father of all is God. He is a creator and Jesus taught us to think of Him as our loving father. He is just and fair, but most importantly He is love. His greatest act of love was sending His son as a sacrifice for our sins.

The Bible is His love letter to us. He set a plan in motion to save humanity from itself.

Sunday evening Bible study will be from various books of the Bible on Christian belief.

Distracted driving affects all

We live in a world with information readily available at our fingertips 24/7. While this is a great convenience, it can be dangerous if you are behind the wheel. According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, at any given second in the United States, an estimated 660,000 people are driving while using a cell phone or manipulating an electronic device. In 2012, over three thousand people died and around 420 thousand more were injured in automobile accidents involving a distracted driver. Distracted driving includes any action that takes your eyes off the road. While distracted driving includes everything from cell phone use to grooming, texting is considered the most dangerous act by far. When a person is texting, it requires visual, manual and cognitive attention.

In Kentucky, it is against the law for drivers to text while behind the wheel. The state has also banned all cell phone use for novice drivers and bus drivers.

Even if you're not responding or composing a text, reading one can be just as dangerous. It takes the average person five seconds to read a text message. During that five seconds, if the person is driving 55 miles per hour, they could drive the length of a football field without paying attention to the road and traffic around them.

The best way to prevent distracted driving is not to do it and encourage your family members and friends to limit their cell phone usage while they are driving. If you are tempted, turn your cell phone off when you get in the driver's seat or put it in a compartment in your vehicle that you can't reach.

If you are a parent of a beginning driver, remind them that if a cop finds them texting or talking while behind the wheel, it could delay them getting their license or cause their license to be suspended.

For more information on family safety topics, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Try this beef nacho casserole recipe for your next backyard barbecue

BEEF NACHO CASSEROLE

Hello! This is Lovina's daughter, Verena. Mom has been extra busy lately, so I wanted to help her out by writing the column for her this week.

Washing dishes, sweeping and mopping floors, and watering flowers has filled my day. With having sisters Loretta-13 and Lovina-10 home from school, they can help out a lot around the house already. I like to send Lovina after my things when I feel a little lazy. Smile!

I enjoy helping mom keep her gardens and flowers watered. She depends on me to keep the flowers watered, so I try my best to keep them looking nice. They are nicely hung on our porch, making it look beautiful from the view on the road. I want to help mom do some weeding in the garden if we get time tomorrow. We want to also wash laundry tomorrow, if it doesn't rain.

Sister Elizabeth has a Yorkshire terrier puppy. She's only had it for a week. She is named Isabella. We call her Izzy for short. She is such a little ornery puppy sometimes. She loves to play and all the attention she gets around here. Elizabeth also has a Shih Tzu dog named Spikey. Her boyfriend Timothy keeps Spikey at his house because he was way too lively in our house for mom. Mom never allowed us to have pets in the house, but so far she hasn't said anything about Izzy. Izzy is most of the time a quiet puppy. She stays quiet during the night and only weighs one and a half pounds so she can't cause too much trouble. Spikey would jump on our beds waking us up before it was time to get up. Timothy brings Spikey along sometimes, so we still get to play with him. I take care of Izzy while Elizabeth is at work. She is pretty well litter box trained already.

Friday night our family was invited to Timothy's brother JR and Rachel's house for a birthday party for Elizabeth. Elizabeth will be 20 on June 14. Rachel baked and decorated a very nice cake for Elizabeth. JR and Rachel have 10 children ages 11 months to 14 years old, so she is a busy mother. We had a lot of fun with the little children. On the menu for supper was homemade pizza, ice cream, cake and watermelon.

Saturday evening cousins Elizabeth-17, Emma-16 and I went to the community building where all the youth gather on Saturday evenings. We took Jacob and Emma's horse Silver and the buggy. He is a big gray horse and seems to do a good job to let us drive him. The youth play games such as volleyball, basketball and board games, etc. There are usually two sets or more of parents at the building to chaperone us youth. They bring snacks and drinks for everyone. Ivan and Ruth and another couple that I didn't recognize were chaperones on Saturday evening. They treated us all to pizza and pop which we all enjoyed. Elizabeth, Emma and I decided to spend the night at our friend Rhonda's house instead of driving home after dark. We started for home the next morning after it was daylight.

Sunday night cousins Elizabeth, Emma and I took our horse Itty Bit and our buggy to the youth singing. It was at Tim and Violet's house which is probably around eight miles from here. For supper they had a casserole, hot dog sandwiches, salad, watermelon, strawberries, cake and ice cream.

I need to get busy and I hope I wrote the column okay for you readers. Take care and God bless!

For a recipe I'll share this beef nacho casserole:

Ingredients:

- 3 pounds ground beef, browned
- 1 quart (32 oz.) salsa
- 1 quart corn
- 1 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons chili powder
- 6 cups corn chips
- 6 cups shredded Colby-jack, cheddar or mozzarella cheese

Directions:

Mix first five ingredients. Put half in the bottom of a large casserole. Then put in half of chips, then half of cheese. Repeat layers. Bake until heated through. You may top with lettuce and tomatoes if you would like.

Note: Omit chili powder if using hot salsa.

Exciting leadership opportunities exist for young 4-H members

Our young people are the future leaders and decision makers of the nation. 4-H offers its members prime opportunities to explore and engage in leadership roles. By participating in a leadership role, young people can develop critical thinking, communication and life skills that will aid them in making future decisions.

Many leadership experiences are geared toward older youth, but younger youth also have the opportunity to become leaders early in their 4-H career.

Two of the most prestigious leadership roles include becoming a delegate to either the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C., or the National 4-H Congress in Atlanta. At the National 4-H Conference, youth join extension professionals and adult volunteer leaders to discuss ways 4-H can better serve young people on local and national levels. Recommendations from the conference are shared with the Secretary of Agriculture, national extension leaders and those involved with 4-H programming. Four delegates from Kentucky are selected every year. During the National 4-H Congress, delegates learn about cultural diversity and serving others and their communities.

Many leadership opportunities also exist at the state level including becoming a state 4-H officer or a member of the State 4-H Teen Council. The council is comprised of young people from across the state. These 4-Hers learn about leadership and communication as they serve as liaisons between local, district and state 4-H programs. State 4-H officers serve as ambassadors for Kentucky 4-H. 4-H members elect state officers each June during Teen Conference, and those officers serve until the end of the next year's conference. The 4-H officers serve in leadership roles in State 4-H Teen Council, and past members often are invited to serve as advisers to the following year's council and officers. The 2014-2015 state officers are:

President: Jordan Stone, Lyon County.
Vice President: Haley Coppage, Ohio County.
Secretary: Breanna Howell, Lawrence County.
Treasurer: Julia Scott, Hart County.

Teens interested in leadership opportunities in 4-H also can attend the 4-H Issues Conference and the State 4-H Teen Conference. At the issues conference, 4-Hers from across the state meet to discuss issues affecting young people and their communities. Youth discuss ways in which they can have a positive impact on community issues and develop plans that they will implement when they return home. Young people who attend the 4-H Teen Conference can participate in a wide range of activities designed to help improve their leadership and communication abilities including workshops, tracks, tours, college visits and issues seminars.

4-H has many clubs and groups in which young people can assume leadership roles. Youth can get their first taste of leadership roles beginning as a junior 4-H member by becoming an officer of a county 4-H club or attending 4-H Summit. Summit is a three-day, two-night event where sixth-through eighth-graders get to meet their peers from across the state as well as State 4-H Teen Council members. During Summit, participants learn about leadership opportunities that are available to them when they become senior 4-Hers.

4-H has many leadership opportunities available for youth. For more information on how you can get involved with these and other 4-H activities, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.
